Hiccup gets Drunk

Chapter One (The Mourning After)

I open my eyes only to see nothing, pitch black and the sound of snoring, loud snoring in fact to loud to be Astrid, "ohh my head hurts" cause it bloody does "what the hell happened last night" all I can remember is having an argument with my dad but I can't remember what about.

I'm trying to move but something has hold of me, I've just figured out where I 'am, One word Toothless.

I start to nudge him and crawl out from under him, he grumbles a bit but doesn't wake up, just like him once he's asleep nothing can wake him up. The light attacks my eyes like daggers, it takes a whiles but my eyes finally adjust to the light, I look around and see I'm in the small gorge where me and Toothless started making friends.

I sit down and start trying to remember what happened last night, just then Toothless starts waking up, I know he can't talk but maybe he can help me remember.

He yoarns, stretches and then looks at my with those big green eyes but there's something wrong he has a bruise round his left eye and its swollen "what the happened to you Toothless" I exclaim, he just looks at me with quite an angry face as if to say "what do you think" as if I know what happened. "no seriously Toothless I can't remember anything about last night", he just nodded his head toward his back, motioning for me to get on, so I did and we took to the air and headed toward the village.

End
file.
